

*The following channeled prayer was shared in Angkor Wat, Cambodia
December, 2004.*

BEING:

May your feet walk with the energy of birth.

May your feet walk with the energy of creation.

And may that come to your heart so that the mind and your feet are one. So that all of you – every pore, every atom, every cell, and the DNA within you that carries all your knowledge – may come to you and be yours.

All beginnings of change come deep within.

All doors are always opened from deep within.

All others are meaningless until the light of the deepest part can shine through all of them.

And in this you will find that your light from deep inside, it carries your knowledge, who you are. For your DNA and your atoms carry not just your knowledge of you as a human, but you from ages past, and ages ago, and ages to come. It connects you to the highest source of your soul and brings you home inside to yourself, always inside to yourself.

Never look outside for your home. It's always inside, the deepest source. But to find it, it must shine through all the rest.